I had been living in confusion for a long time. A matter of years. The confusion of “Who am I, What the fuck is going on. Who am I in my relationships, my marriage?”
It all came to a head. I knew I had to do something about it no matter what. I felt like I was achieving things and missing ‘life’ at the same time. Really wanting to open up more of a creative state and get out of the yang state.

And now, I’m not in that state of confusion. In my day I am feeling relaxed in my relationship situation and work. Almost like I am floating around on light feet. A calm feeling that didn’t used to be there is just here now. I feel really calm and at peace. I noticed even yesterday talking on the phone. I was like “is that me talking”. I just felt really relaxed. You know how you come across people where they are in that state of everything being fast - this is how I was.

My whole world has opened up. I’m connecting with new people and having these conversations that are on the level of who I now am, not old friends. Feels comforting, new doors to open. So many things feel like they are connecting around me. New people coming into my life. They are coming in because there is a reason. I’ve never felt like that before. Serendipity. I feel a lot happier. It is all connected randomness. There is a sense that there is a much bigger everything that I am a part of.

My marriage has transformed. I have a deeper connection with myself and a partner to share that with me for the rest of my life. Had an awesome intimate session on the weekend. Put on lingerie. Switched my mindset from chore to choosing. Bit of a breakthrough for me. I feel like I can lean over in the bed and have a cuddle with him and not feel pressured that it's got to go somewhere.

- Really enjoyed sharing some parts of my journey from meditation adn the work I’ve been doing with you and books on the other life, afterlife. Made me feel really good.
    - Sparked the shared joy and happiness of
    - Felt really connecting.
- Done more breast massaging and feeling more connected with self and body.
- Even this morning, was massaging face and then decided to massage breasts with it.
- Connecting with new people for these conversations, not old friends. Feels comforting, new doors to open. New people we are connected through who we are now. It is all connected randomness.
- There is a much bigger everything that I am a part of. I definitely feel more connected.
- In my day I am feeling so much more relaxed in my relationship situation and work. Almost like I am floating around on light feet

Who am I. What the fuck is going on. Who am i in my relationships.

I’m not in that state of confusion.
I had been living of confusion for a long time. A matter of years.
It all came to a head
I knew I had to do something about it no matter what.

Even with my business decisions I can make decisions much more easier. The hell yes thing. I feel much more confident and happy with myself. I don't feel distracted.

I noticed even yesterday talking on the phone. I was like "is that me talking". I just felt really relaxed. HOw you come across to people when you are in that state of everything is fast. I felt like this is how I was.